"O give thanks unto the Lord, call upon His name; make known His deeds among the people"—Psalm cv. I.

In this text we are told three ways of using our tongue in God's service: first there is praise—"Give thanks unto the Lord," and the additional ground that he had treated her with great crucity in his region. The strict of the contends of the Rutherfurds.

DAUND ANTROBUS, who arrived in this country on Sunday last, on board the White Star liner Megantic, is an officer of King George's Grenadier Guards, and the next heir to his father's baronetcy, and to the ownership of Stonehenge. He is in fact the only son of Sir Edmund Antrobus, who is known officially as "of Rutherfurd," the first holder of the Antrobus baronetcy having received the royal permission to as is the octived the royal permission to assume this style, as owner of the Rutherfurd estates, formerly belonging to the Scotch Barony of Rutherfurd, in Roxburghshire. This peerage became dormant in 1724, and if genenlogists are to be believed, there are in America people who have very strong claims thereto, among them the Rutherfurds of New York, whose armorial bearings are identical with the old lime Lords of Rutherfurd. There is no family connection between the Rutherfurds and the, family of Antrobus, and if Sir Edmund Antrobus makes use of the same supporters as the former Lords of Rutherfurd, namely, two horses, it is therefurd, namely, two horses, it is the cause they were granted to the first baronet by the crown, on purchasing the lands and estates of the Rutherfurds.

Christian Science.

To the Editor of The Times-Dispatch;

Sir.—Kindly allow me, a student of Christian Science, a few words in your columns, which will. I believe, prove instructive to your readers.

Feeling that you would not intentionally misrepresent or cast disparasement on any one, much less the beloved lender of a world religion. I would first ask wherein the Christian Science belief that there is no death differs from the tenching of Jesus?

Christian Scientists have no authority, either in the textbooks of Christian Science or the Biblic, to believe that Mrs. Eddy, any more than all others whom God made in His image and likeness, is "older than the hills." In Him we live and move and have our being." That being true, and we have always believed it theoretically, then we must in our true state have always existed in the consciousness of God.

You confess to always having believed we believed that he consciousness of God.

too, if necessary), give them an intellectual and moral education, and train them to be leaders, not followers. There are many books, but only one you can take as a moral guide, and that book is the Holy Bible. Accept no other in its place. Please bear in mind this fact, that a mental education without the moral is like educating an animal—it demands a master. Mental and moral education combined gives strength of character. If you will do this, you then prepare your children to be leaders indeed and in truth, and the rest will follow, and that spells success.

Yours for success,
